

I find the use of cell phones on board aircrafts highly unsafe if the wrong kind of passenger has access to it (i.e.: a terrorist) It could potentially make crew members and civilian passengers more vulnerable to their attacks by enhancing their capability of coordinating a possible attack with either their partners in crime on the ground, or on board of aircraft.